

Male Shares of Undergraduate Enrollments in Illinois Postsecondary Institutions: 1992, 2001 and 2002

This report is a summary of information collected by the The Pell Institute for the Study of Opportunity in Higher Education.¹ All information and analysis was conducted by the Pell Institute. The Joliet Junior College Office of Institutional Effectiveness is making this information available for the convenience of Joliet Junior College faculty and staff.

This report accompanies the February issue of OPPORTUNITY that describes male enrollment issues that we mailed to you earlier this week. I am sending this spreadsheet to you as a subscriber for your information and so that you can share it with others in your state who are concerned about the higher education of males.

This report was compiled from enrollment data reported by each institution to the U.S. Department of Education on their fall IPEDS enrollment report form. We used data from fall 1992, fall 2001 and fall 2002. We have calculated for each institution the male share of undergraduates for each year. We then compare these percentages to the male share of undergraduates in your state to calculate a Male Equity Index for each institution and year. Finally we have graded each institution on its enrollment of male students. The purpose of this grade is to focus each institution's attention on its role in serving male students in your state.

These studies are a part of our growing concern about how underrepresented populations are served by colleges and universities. We have reported on three of these underrepresented populations: low income (Pell Grant recipients), underrepresented minorities (blacks, Hispanics and American Indians) and now males. You may download our reports for each of these groups from your state page on our website at:
http://www.postsecondary.org/pr/pr_02.asp

We welcome your reactions to this spreadsheet and our reports in this series in OPPORTUNITY.
